SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 8.

ARRIVAL OF GEN. GRANT.

Without Staff, or flourish of trumpets. Gen. GRANT made his entree into the city this evening, accompanied by his son, a lad thirteen years of age.

He quietly took his seat at the dinner table at WILLARD'S. Many inquiries were made as to who the strange Major-General was, but none seemed to know, until an officer who had served with him in the West recognized the hero of Vicksburg. The announcement spread like lightning, and a hearty spontaneous cheer rose above the clatter of dishes and the trampling of servants. The eager guests crowded around the General, who looked as if he would rather face a battery than a demonstration like this. But there being no line of retreat open to him, he had only the alternative left to make the best of the situation. The loss of a warm dinner was the penalty he paid for this demonstration of popularity. Gen. GRANT held consultation with Gen. HALLECK to-night for four hours.

THE CAPTURES ON CHESAPEAKE BAY.

The Crusader, Acting Lieut. HAYS, commanding, one of the several gunboats sent after the Titan, came into Yorktown this morning, and reported that Commander PARKER left the Piankatank last evening, where he had seen the Titan burnt to the water's edge, and had captured seven of WOOD's canoes. One of the gunboats had fired into the wreck of the Titan and destroyed the machinery.

THE BANK BILL.

The Ways and Means Committee to-day went through the amendments of the sub-committee on the Bank Bill, and will have it ready to report to-morrow. The committee have adopted nearly all of the amendments suggested by the Comptroller and the sub-committee.

ADMIRAL DUPONT.

It is understood that Admiral DUPONT will shortly be summoned to Washington, to appear before a Congressional inquiry on his attack on Fort Sumter, in April last. The Admiral's friends court the investigation—assured that his fame will come out bright through the ordeal.

COURT-MARTIAL ON ADMIRAL WILKES.

The Court-martial in Admiral WILKES' case convenes to-morrow. The following are charges preferred against him by the Secretary of the Navy: Disobedience of the lawful orders of his superior officer while in the execution of the duties of his office; insubordinate conduct and negligence or carelessness in obeying orders; disrespect and disrespectful language to his superior officer while in the execution of his office; refusal of obedience to a lawful general order or regulation issued by the Secretary of the Navy. Conduct unbecoming an officer, and constituting an offence made punishable by article eight of the articles adopted and put in force for the government of the Navy of the United States. One of the specifications of the last charge is, that Commodore WILKES did make and persist in making evasive, informal and insufficient answers respecting his age. The other charges are equally ridiculous.

THE QUICKSILVER MINING COMPANY.

The Supreme Court room was crowded to-day with people to hear Judge BLACK's argument in favor of the Quicksilver Mining Company. He showed in his speech that the boundary line has already been run seven times by the Surveyor General of California, and on each occasion the mines were decided to have been within the limits of the Fossett claim; that this claim has been argued nine times in court, and eight times decided in favor of the Fossett ranche, and once in favor of Bereysea claim; that no appeal was taken from the decision in California, by the Government, which was against the United States, and that the Government was thus estopped from denying the rights of the Fossett claim. He will complete his argument to-morrow.

NAVAL STEAM ENGINEERING.

The House Naval Committee had before them to-day Commander WALKER, of the navy, and Chief Engineer HENDERSON. Their evidence related to the present system of construction of the navy, especially the Engineer Department, which they both fully indorsed. They regard ISHERWOOD's theory as correct.

MILITARY NOMINATIONS.

The Senate Military Committee have ready to report a large number of military nominations, including Major and Brigadier-Generals, Quartermasters, Commissaries and Paymasters.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 8.

NAVAL DEPOT AT THE WEST.

It appears from a report of the late Admiral FOOTE, just made public, that after an examination of several sites in the West, he recommends Carondelet for a naval depot, with an auxiliary depot at Cairo. The subject is now before Congress.

ARRESTED.

JOSEPH SAVAGE, a hardware dealer in this city, has been arrested by order of the Government, and his store closed. He has had a number of contracts with the Government.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 8.

CONFISCATION.

The petition of ELI THAYER and others, presented on Monday, was incorrectly stated to be in favor of "the passage of a law confiscating the lands of the rebels, and distributing them among freedmen." The petition, in reality, asks Congress "to confiscate utterly, and without reserve, the lands of rebels; and to give of the same, without other formality than occupation, one hundred and sixty acres to each private in the naval service, and to each man in the rank and file of the Union army, and of the rebel army who will take the subscribed oath of allegiance to the United States; and that the lands thereafter remaining, be open to settlement under the Homestead Law."

A SPECIAL ORDER.

On motion of Mr. GRIMES, of Iowa, (Union,) Tuesday next was set apart solely for the consideration of District of Columbia business. On this motion, the bill to amend the act to incorporate the Inhabitants of Washington, passed May 20, 1820, was called up, and after amendment was passed.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

On motion of Mr. LANE, of Kansas, (Union,) a resolution was adopted, directing the Committee on the Pacific Railroad to inquire into the expediency of constructing a railroad from Fort Leavenworth to Lawrence, in Kansas.

CALIFORNIA LAND CLAIMS.

Mr. CARLILE, of Virginia, (Dem.,) reported back from the Committee on Public Lands, a bill to confirm certain land claims in California.

RAILROAD AND MAIL FACILITIES.

Mr. MORGAN, of New-York, (Union,) presented various memorials, praying for additional mail and railroad facilities between New-York and Philadelphia. Referred to the Committee on Post-offices and Post-roads.

THE QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) introduced a bill to provide for the better organization of the Quartermaster's Department, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

This bill organizes divisions charged with duties as follows:

1. Purchase and disposition of horses for the service. 2 Purchase and issue of clothing, knapsacks, camp and garrison equipage and accoutrements. 3. Charter of transportation. 4. Western transportation and telegraphs. 5. Purchase of forage. 6. Erection of hospitals, barracks, storehouses, stables, bridges. 7. Purchase and disposition of wagons, ambulances and forges. 8. Inspections and reports. 9. Correspondence, returns and records. Except in case of urgency or in purchases at the seat of war, advertising for proposals is required. The bill provides also for the more economical distribution of supplies, and for the punishment of frauds or bribery in such purchases.

THE M'DOWELL MILITARY COMMISSION.

On motion of Mr. POWELL, of Kentucky, (Democrat,) the Senate proceeded to the consideration of his resolution calling for the report and evidence of the commission at the head of which was Gen. McDOWELL, charged to investigate the conduct of certain officers in the West.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) did not think the Senate should order these papers. If it was the report of a Court-Martial, where both sides could be heard, he would not object to a call for papers in any case whatever. This was simply a commission sent out to seek information for the Government, much of which was to be read in the prosecution of such officers as had been derelict in duty and become implicated in unlawful transactions.

Mr. GRIMES, of Iowa, (Union,) proposed an amendment to strike out the words "Secretary of War," and insert, "request the President of the United States to transmit to the Senate the report and the evidence, and any papers in his possession shedding light upon the subject." Mr. GRIMES said he understood that the whole proceedings, both in the institution of the commission and its subsequent action, were grossly in violation of the articles of war, which provided "that no such commission should be created except by the President, and him alone." He was informed that the President was wholly ignorant of the formation of such a commission. He (Mr. GRIMES) considered it nothing but a commission empowered to fish up testimony derogatory to officers of high standing in the army.

He referred as an instance to the case of General CURTIS, who was arraigned on exparte testimony without his presence. He had been informed that every particle of the testimony reflecting upon Gen. CURTIS, taken by the commission, was disproved by testimony now in the possession of the President and the War Department. So satisfactory was the evidence that the President announced at once that Gen. CURTIS was free from all blame. If this resolution passes it should be accompanied by a request for any testimony, which should properly accompany it, that the country may have an opportunity to judge of both sides. He did not want an exparte statement to go out to the detriment of a soldier when the records of the War Department entirely exonorated him.

Mr. LANE, of Kansas, (Union,) moved to insert after the word "President" the words, "If not incompatible with the public interests."

Mr. POWELL had no objection to the amendment of the Senator from Iowa. That Senator had stated that this commission was organized without the knowledge of the President. This was no doubt the truth. The Secretary of War was in the habit of doing things without the knowledge of the President, just as he pleased, very much to the detriment of the best interests of the country. If the President allowed such things to be done without his knowledge he was not entitled to the commiseration of the country. He should instantly dismiss such an official from his service. He (POWELL) hoped that Gen. CURTIS was exculpated. He had visited the War Department on one occasion, for the purpose of examining into a law he had introduced here to prevent frauds upon the War Department, and was flatly refused the privilege of reading the reports in the War Office. He (POWELL) considered it an unpardonable rudeness to a Senator, and he had not put his foot inside of that office since. He contended that he had an equal right to the privileges of the War Department with Republican Senators.

Mr. LANE, of Kansas, had no answer but this to make to the assault of the Senator from Kentucky on the President and Secretary of War while in the performance of duty. If he was either of these officers, he would consider it the highest honor that could be paid him to be assaulted by the Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, (Union,) said the evidence in the possession of the President abundantly vindicated Gen. CURTIS from the charge of speculation in cotton. He had it from the lips of the President himself that the removal of Gen. CURTIS was for another cause.

Mr. POWELL said that the Senator from Kansas had stated that if he were the President or Secretary of War, he would want no higher eulogy than his censure. If he thought the Secretary of War was performing his duty, he would have no word of censure for him; of one thing he was certain, that the praises of the Senator from Kansas would be very damaging to the President and his War Secretary.

Mr. LANE, of Kansas, had been here three years and had never heard one word from the Senator (POWELL) in denunciation of the leaders of the rebellion, while he heard day by day denunciations of the officers of the Government.

Mr. JOHNSON, of Maryland, (Union) hoped the Senator from Massachusetts would withdraw his objection to the passage of the resolution as amended. Gen. CURTIS was not the only official whose reputation had been damaged in public estimation by the commission. Nine-tenths of the evidence before it would not be received in a court of justice.

Mr. WILSON would not resist the passage of the resolution after the amendment of the Senator from Iowa; as a general rule, however, he did not think it proper to call for the reports of and evidence taken by commissions sent out by the War Department to reform abuses, to be spread before the country.

The subject was informally postponed.

PROMOTING ENLISTMENTS.

The bill to promote enlistments came up in order, the pending amendment being that of Mr. BROWN, recommending a general emancipation policy as a war measure.

Mr. BROWN, of Missouri, (Union,) addressed the Senate for two hours and a half in support of the proposition that Congress and the Executive were clothed with full power to eradicate Slavery, as a war measure, and asserted that the present struggle in which we were engaged, would have to be fought over again, if during its continuance the institution of Slavery was not eradicated by the exercise of those powers with which Congress and the Executive are clearly clothed.

Mr. BROWN quoted voluminously from PATRICK HENRY and JOHN QUINCY ADAMS in support of the existence of this power. He contended that Missouri, which forty years ago came into the Union by an act of Congress dedicating her to Slavery, would now gladly hail the passage of another act dedicating her to Freedom.

The further consideration of the bill was then postponed.

EQUALIZED PAY OF SOLDIERS.

Mr. WILSON called up the bill to equalize the pay of soldiers.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky, (Dem.,) offered an amendment providing that the District Court shall appoint a commissioner to determine the value and make awards to loyal owners of slaves taken into the service.

Mr. DAVIS announced his intention to address the Senate to-morrow on the amendment.

The Senate went into executive session, and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 8.

THE PAY OF SOLDIERS.

Mr. KASSON, of Iowa, (Union,) presented resolutions of the Iowa Legislature, in favor of soldiers who have been discharged in consequence of wounds or disabilities, being employed in situations which they are competent to fill under the Federal Government, and heartily indorsing the policy of paying soldiers and sailors of African descent the same as is given to whites for similar service. The resolutions were referred to the Military Committee.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

The House went into Committee on the Senate amendments to the Deficiency Bill, and agreed to the amendment discussed yesterday for medicine, and medical attendance for negro refugees, commonly called contrabands, $35,000, and rejected the pending amendment thereto, restricting the expenditure to those who are or shall be actually in the service.

The House concurred in the larger number of the Senate's amendments, including thirty millions for transportation and eighteen millions and a half for regular supplies of th e Quartermaster's Department.

Owing to a disagreement on other amendments, the bill will be returned to the Senate.

THE GOLD BILL.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to sell from time to time, at his discretion, any gold coin in the Treasury over and above the amount which, in his opinion, may be required by the Government for the payment of interest on the public debt and for other purposes.

Mr. DUMONT, of Indiana, (Union,) had offered an amendment, providing that the Secretary of the Treasury shall not sell any gold without the advice and consent of the other executive departments of the Government, and that the operation of this act shall cease in one year after its passage.

The question was taken and this amendment rejected.

The House next voted on the following amendment of Mr. COX, of Ohio:

Provided, Before any sale take place, at least five days, public notice shall be given of the time and place for receiving bids, and the Secretary of the Treasury may, if he deems it for the public interest, withdraw gold from the market before the bid is absolutely accepted.

This amendment was rejected—49 against 66.

The question was next stated on the amendment of Mr. LONG, of Ohio, namely:

Authorizing and requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to use, from time to time, the surplus of gold in the Treasury for the payment of soldiers in the field.

Mr. BOUTWELL's amendment, heretofore offered, was adopted in lieu of this, and as a substitute for the original bill. It merely authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to anticipate the payment of interest on the public debt from time to time, with or without a rebate of interest upon the coupons, as to him may seem expedient.

The bill in this amended form, was then passed, 90 against 34.

AYES—Messrs. Allison, Ancon, Arnold, Ashley, Baldwin, of Michigan, Beaman, Bliss, Boutwell, Brandagee, Brooks, Chanler, A. W. Clark, F. Clark, Clay, Cobb, Cofroth, Cole, Cox, Dawes, Dawson, Deming, Dumont, Edon, Eldridge, Eliot, Fink, Frank, Ganson, Grennell, Hale, Hall, Harrington, Holman, Hutchkiss, Hubbard, of Iowa, Hubbard, of Connecticut, Johnson, of Ohio, Julian, Kalfleisch, Kellogg, of Michigan, Kernan, Knapp, Law, Lazear, Leblond, Mallory, Marvin, McDowell, McIndoe, McKinney, Middleton, Moorhead, Morrill, Morris New-York, Morris Ohio, Morrison, Amos Myers, Nelson, Noble, O'Neill Pennsylvania, O'Neill Ohio, Pendleton, Perham, Price, Pruyn, Randall Pennsylvania, Rice Massachusetts, Rice Maine, Rogers, Rollins Missouri, Schenck, Scott, Starr, Steele New-York, Stiles, Stuart, Thayer, Thomas, Tracy, Upson, Van Valkenburg, Wadsworth, Ward, Webster, Whaley, Wheeler, J. W. White, Wilson, Windom, Woodbridge—90.

NAYS—Messrs. Alley, Ames, Bailey, Baldwin, of Massachusetts; Baxter, Blow, Bloyd, Broomall, Brown, of West Virginia; Dixon, Donnelley, Driggs, Farnsworth, Garfield, Hooper, Hulburd, Kasson, Kelly, Loan Longyear, McBride, McClurg, Norton, Orth, Pike, Schofield, Shannon, Smith, Spaulding, Stebbins, Stearns, Williams and Wilder—34.

OFFICERS WITHOUT COMMANDS.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, (Union,) from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported the following bill:

Whereas it appears that many regular and volunteer officers are either entirely unemployed, or not upon duty corresponding to their rank, thus holding commissions and drawing their pay without equivalent service, and at the same time standing in the way of promotion and increase of compensation of those performing the duty of general officers; therefore,

Resolved, That all Major-Generals and Brigadier-Generals who, on the 15th day of March, shall not be in the performance of duty or service corresponding to their respective rank, and have not been engaged for three months next prior to this date, shall be dropped from the rolls of the army, and all pay and emolument shall cease from that day, and the vacancies be filled by promotions and appointment as in other cases, provided that this act shall not apply to any officer unemployed in consequence of wounds received or disease contracted in the service, or who is a prisoner of war in the hands of the enemy, or on parole.

The latter part of the bill provides for returning to the regular army those who were appointed therefrom to the position of general officers. They are to be returned to the rank they occupied before the passage of the act of July, 1861.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, said the provisions of the bill were distinct in their character, and involved no point which could not be readily comprehended, and he therefore asked that the bill be put on its passage.

Mr. HOLMAN, of Indiana, (Democrat) inquired how the bill would affect Gen. ROBERT ALLEN, who is charged with the Quartermaster's Department of the Valley of the Mississippi. Would the bill put him out of the service?

Mr. SCHENCK replied that in framing this bill, the Committee had no reference to any political officer. They believed the public service would be benefitted by its passage, without regard to those who might be struck out on one side or the other. If the gentleman would look at the bill he would see that it is not directed at those general officers who happen not to be in command of divisions or brigades, but at those not employed in a capacity suitable to their respective ranks. If the President should place at the head of the Quartermaster's Department a gentleman holding such rank as Gen. ALLEN, the employment should be considered appropriate to the grade, and, therefore, this bill would not affect him. According to a communication from the War Department there are fourteen Major-Generals and eleven Brigadier-Generals unemployed, and thirty-nine Major and Brigadier-Generals together who are employed in various ways, in duties of more or less importance, some on Examining Boards, and others on Court-martial, not having command of corps or brigades.

Mr. COX said the President has no discretion to drop any officer who is unemployed.

Mr. SCHENCK replied the President has no power to dismiss any of those officers.

Mr. COX understood this bill to save the President his arbitrary power.

Mr. SCHENCK said the bill itself drops the officers if they come within the description.

Mr. COX asked whether this bill had been printed.

Mr. SCHENCK replied that it had not been ordered to be printed by the House, but it had been printed in the newspapers of the country.

Mr. COX remarked that there was something of a personal and partisan character in this bill. He hoped his colleague was so gallant as not to strike at a brother officer. The House should have an opportunity of seeing whether there was any back-hand stroke at any general officer unemployed.

Mr. SCHENCK desired his colleague to deal in plain language, not in insinuations. There was nothing concealed in this bill. He could not lie under suspicion when he knew nothing wrong was intended, and would not reply to any such insinuations.

Mr. COX—You need not reply to any insinuation until one is made. I don't know whether the bill strikes at FREMONT or MCCLELLAN, or any other officer.

Mr. SCHENCK—Neither nor both.

Mr. COX said he should like to know what the bill meant. He did not take things for granted because they came from the Military Committee. He wanted to understand why thirty-four officers were struck at. He wanted to see who was to be hurt by it. Was there to be any saving to the Government, or are others to be appointed to the places of those who are struck down. He did not deal in insinuations. An opportunity should be afforded to discuss the bill. He knew MCCLELLAN did not ask favors from gentlemen on the other side of the House. MCCLELLAN had lost in the public service every dollar he had earned as a civilian. It might be the purpose to strike at his pay.

Mr. SCHENCK said that when this bill, several weeks ago, was proposed to be reported and read to the House, his colleague objected, supposing it to be a cat in the meal-tub.

Mr. COX replied that he did not use expressions of that kind.

Mr. SCHENCK said, at all events, his colleague then thought somebody was struck at, and that there was some covert design in the bill. His colleague was shrewd and critical; and he could not persuade himself that his colleague had not looked into it. He appealed to him to say whether the provisions were not so clear as to be readily comprehended.

Mr. COX said that the same bill was referred back to the committee, and was now for the first time reported.

Mr. SCHENCK said something ought to be done to correct the evil, without reference to any officer to be affected by the bill. His colleague wanted to get in a speech about MCCLELLAN, who would be affected by the bill, unless he should be employed before the 15th of March. So of FREMONT, BUELL and others. The country should not be taxed to support officers who were rendering no adequate, or no service at all.

Mr. ELDRIDGE, of Wisconsin, (Dem.,) inquired whether officers could not be dropped without the action of Congress.

Mr. SCHENCK replied that they could be dismissed, but that would imply something wrong. The committee thought it would be better to provide for dropping them in a bill, which would not touch the characters of the officers, or in any impropriety of conduct.

Mr. GANSON, of New-York, (Dem.,) inquired whether the gentleman had any information to show why these officers were not employed?

Mr. SCHENCK replied in the negative, and said some of them ought to be employed.

Mr. KERNAN, of New-York, (Dem.,) said the bill affected those general officers who had not been employed for three months. Did the Committee doubt that some of them were meritorious officers? If there were meritorious officers among them they should not be dropped; but a different course ought to be pursued with others. The House ought not to pass a general law destroying all, whether good or bad. There should be a distinction.

Mr. SCHENCK replied that a discretion must be left to the President, and further demonstrated the propriety of passing the bill.

Mr. COX said gentlemen on his side desired to offer an amendment, and it was only fair that an opportunity should be affoded for discussion. His side of the House was determined upon this.

Mr. SCHENCK said he could not consent to any accommodation including a threat.

Mr. COX said he cautiously avoided a threat. His gallant friend from Ohio ought not to be frightened by a threat anyhow.

Mr. SCHENCK remarked that he would agree to make the bill a special order. What day would the gentleman take it up?

Mr. COX said the first of April. (Laughter.)

By general consent the bill was made the order for Tuesday next.

UNIFORM AMBULANCE SYSTEM.

The Senate bill to establish a uniform system of ambulances, was passed with slight amendments, and also a bill to increase the rank and pay of the Provost-Marshal-General to those of a Brigadier-General. The vote on this was 68 against 26.

CONCERNING CHAPLAINS.

Mr. FARNSWORTH, of Illinois, (Union,) from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill providing that regular and volunteer chaplains shall not suffer diminution or loss of pay when absent on leave, or on account of sickness, or when held by the enemy as prisoners. The bill also provides for giving them pensions in case of disabilities at the rate of $20 a month. This bill was passed.

HOMESTEADS ON CONFISCATED ESTATES.

Mr. JULIAN, of Indiana, (Union,) from the Committee on Public Lands, reported a bill to secure to persons in the military or naval service of the United States homesteads on confiscated or forfeited estates in insurrectionary districts and for other purposes.

The bill was ordered to be printed and recommitted.

The House at 4:15 adjourned.

FROM NEWBERN.

Prospect of another Attack—The Rebel Ram on the Neuse—Preparations to Receive the Enemy.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

NEWBERN, Tuesday, March 1, 1864.

Our atmosphere is quite warlike again. Rumors have been for some time in circulation of the advance of a heavy column of the enemy's forces for the conquest of Newbern, and we are anticipating that JEFF. DAVIS is about to make another effort to realize his threat to take this place before we celebrate another anniversary of its capture by Gen. BURNSIDE, on the 14th of March, 1862.

Brig.-Gen. PALMER, commanding forces and defences of Newbern, was called from church on Sabbath morning by one of his scouts, and in the evening he held a consultation with the Superintendent of Negro Affairs, Capt. JAMES, relative, we suppose, to calling the colored men into service, if necessary. Yesterday an order from the Provost-Marshal, Capt. DENNY, made its appearance, warning all white citizens able to bear arms to report immediately for duty.

Measures of this kind are well calculated to excite the public mind, still a good degree of confidence pervades the community. The rebels have been building an iron-clad at Kinston, and it is now reported ready for action. Major-Gen. PECK, who is ever watchful of the operations of the enemy, informed the writer, not long since, that he had heard the entire history of this boat, knew when her engine was made and when it was put on board. It is commonly expected that this formidable vessel, as it is called, will take part in the coming engagement. Gen. PECK is making such arrangements to receive this craft as will be entirely unexpected by the rebels.

Our navy has been reinforced, and is eager for an engagement, and we expect that if the enemy bring with them this boat, about which we have so long heard, its epitaph will soon be writiten.

For a very sufficient reason, I do not care to state the number of troops here. This much is true, we are better prepared to receive the enemy than on the first of last month. The Third New-York Cavalry, which has rendered such invaluable service in this department are now here, and acquainted as they are with every by-path for miles around, we are expecting most efficient service, in time past, and shall not be disappointed.

It is the common opinion that the golden opportunity for the enemy has passed, so far as this place is concerned, and the general desire is expressed that we could have a sufficient force to warrant us meeting the enemy in the open field. ELIHU.

Death of a New-York Merchant.

NEW-HAVEN, Tuesday, March 8.

PELATIAH PERIT, a prominent merchant in New-York during more than forty years, died at his residence in this city on Tuesday morning, March 8, aged 78 years. He was recently President of the Chamber of Commerce in New-York, and of the Seamen's Savings Bank, and has been active throughout a long life in the management of other important financial and charitable institutions. He graduated at Yale College in the class of 1802. His funeral will take place in New-Haven on Thursday afternoon.

From California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Monday, March 7.

The funeral of the late THOMAS STAR KING took place yesterday, and was very imposing. The assemblage of people was greater than on any similar occasion for many years. All the Christian denominations, the Masons, and the military participated. The Governor and the principal Federal and State officials were present. Minute guns were fired during the service.

The season was favorable to the growing crops.

A Canard Exposed.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, March 8.

Reports are in circulation, and have probably been telegraphed from here, of the invasion of Maryland by rebel raiders. It may be confidently stated that the only foundation for these rumors is the fact that a small rebel force has been seen in Loudon County, Va.

GEN. SHERMAN'S EXPEDITION.

Its Return to Vicksburgh—The Spoils of the March—Negroes, Mules, Cattle, Hogs, &c.

CAIRO, Tuesday, March 8.

Passengers by the steamer Luminary, from Vicksburgh 3d, say that SHERMAN and his army are there.

ANOTHER REPORT.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, March 8.

A special dispatch to the Bulletin, from Cincinnati, March 8, says: "An officer arrived at Cairo yesterday, direct from Vicksburgh, who corroborates the rebel stories regarding the return of Gen. SHERMAN's expedition to Jackson. He says that a portion of SHERMAN's force is marching already for Vicksburgh, with a small army of negroes, and a large lot of mules, horses, hogs, cattle, &c. These are the spoils taken on the way.

Rebel rumors say that Col. FORREST was killed in engagement with Gen. SHERMAN's expedition."

Sherman's Operations up to Feb. 24—He Reached the Tombigbee—How Sherman's Troops Lived.

From the Nashville Union, March 4.

We have reliable information from Gen. SHERMAN up to the 24th ult., of a highly satisfactory character. It is brought by a gentleman who left Montgomery on that day, and arrived in this city last night. He is intelligent, and took considerable pains to ascertain the real situation of affairs; indeed, to obtain information was a portion of the motive for his hazardous trip:

After occupying Meridian, a portion of our force were sent as far south as Quitman, but it retired again to the main body, as soon as it had accomplished its object, which was to destroy some railroad, and to create consternation at Mobile, and cause a concentration of forces there, to have them out of the way of our progress eastward.

Having concentrated his army again, he proceeded in the direction of Demopolis, on the Tombigbee, which place it reached and occupied on the 22d, that portion of POLK's forces which held the town, retiring on his approach. The severance between the right and left wings of the army, which we noticed some days since, rendered the enemy entirely helpless, and all it can do is to retreat.

POLK has been completely outgeneraled; SHERMAN cannot get a fight out of him. Our troops are moving in a solid body, but parties are constantly thrown out, destroying railroads, &c., completely severing rebel communications, wherever they went.

At a distance from railroads SHERMAN finds plenty of corn and potatoes, to subsist both animals and men; but where these articles could be carried off by the rebels the country is stripped. The lack of wagons, and the bad condition of the railroad track, however, has protected the farmers thus far; and our troops are subsisting upon the fat of the land.

No stealing is allowed—no foraging, save by authorized parties, who issue certificates of indebtedness, payable when the parties prove their loyalty.

The Elections, etc.—Repulse of the Rebels at Massy Creek—Capture of Sixty Rebels.

KNOXVILLE, Sunday, March 6.

The county elections yesterday passed off quietly. The whole number of votes cast in Knoxville was 261, against an average vote in peace times of 700. Making allowance for absentees in the army and elsewhere, the vote is full and larger than was anticipated; in the country districts it was fuller; one hundred votes were polled in a neighboring district in Sevier County, against a usual vote of 170. The returns from Knox County will not be all in till to-morrow. There is no report at all, as yet, from the adjacent counties. The vote would have been much larger, but many undoubtedly loyal men objected to the oath required by Gov. JOHNSON as a condition, and did not vote.

There is nothing new in army affairs, except the capture at Chilhawee Mountain of sixty rebels by the Fourth Indiana Cavalry.

A brigade of rebel cavalry dashed into our lines to-day at Massy Creek, but were handsomely repulsed. We took several prisoners.

From Fortress Monroe.

FORTRESS MONROE, Monday, March 7.

JAMES REDMOND and JOHN HOLLIN, of the One Hundred and Eighteenth New-York Volunteers, were brought to Balfour Hospital, yesterday, badly wounded in the recent skirmishing near Deep Creek.

Capt. A. GAGE has been appointed Inspecting Commissary of the department, by command of Major-Gen. BUTLER.

The steamer S. R. Spaulding sails for Beaufort, N. C., this afternoon.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, March 8.

A letter from Fortress Monroe says the army gunboat Brewster arrived there last night from a cruise after the steamtug Titan, that was captured by the rebels at Cherrystone.

She reports chasing the Titan into Piankatuk River. She reported to a guard ship, and was allowed to pass, but is now hemmed in by our navy gunboats, and will probably be recaptured.

The letter says nothing further about Col. DAHLGREN.

The Wreck of the Bohemian.

PORTLAND, Me., Tuesday, March 8—9:30 P. M.

The Bohemian has split open, and will be a total loss. As much as possible of her cargo is being saved as it washes ashore, and much more will probably be saved when the sea goes down.

Highly Improper.

Extract of a private letter dated

HAVANA, Tuesday, March 1, 1864.

Some two weeks or more since, as you are aware, the United States steamer De Soto took the blockade-runner Cumberland, an English steamer with a valuable cargo, near Pensacola; the entire amount of ship and cargo will be little less than a half million of dollars.

Four Englishmen, who were understood to be chief owners, were on board, taken prisoners, kindly treated and released, came back to Havana from whence they last sailed, and have been staying at our hotel (Mrs. ALBY's) to this time.

On Friday, the 26th ult., the De Soto came into this port. On Saturday, the 27th, a Lieutenant and the Purser were invited by these same blockade-running Englishmen to dine with them; they accepted, and dined and wined together at our public table, very much to the annoyance of good and loyal Americans.

These same Englishmen have had two steamers taken before by our navy, and have a stock of some $200,000 of goods here at this moment, intended to be run in to the rebels.

Had those men been engaged in honorable warfare, and taken prisoners, the conduct of our officers would have done them great credit, and we should have applauded them. In this case they were mere sneaks, prowling about our coasts like thieves, against the law of nations, of morality and common honesty, without a patriotic motive, only for mere mercenary purposes.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S ABDICATION.—The Memorial Diplomatique makes itself responsible for the extraordinary statement that at a recent Cabinet Council, on the Danish question, Queen VICTORIA rose from the table declaring that she could come to no decision without consulting with Prince ALBERT, retired into her closet, and, on emerging, announced that the Prince was hostile to any act of war by England.

This unmistakable proof of mental aberration is said to have determined Lord PALMERSTON to urge the abdication of the Queen; and the fact that, instead of joining his mother at Osborne, the Prince of Wales has gone with his princess to St. Leonards, is interpreted as an indication that EDWARD VII. is preparing to mount the throne, and to inaugurate a new foreign policy in the affairs of Great Britain.

It is certain that the present attitude of the English Government cannot long be maintained if England is to keep her place as a Power of the first rank, and if the abdication of VICTORIA is a necessary preliminary to vigorous and honorable action on the part of Great Britain, that abdication is likely to be insisted upon and accomplished with no unnecessary delay.—Commercial Advertiser.

MOVEMENTS OF THE ALABAMA.

HER RECEPTION IN THE EAST INDIES.

THE FLORIDA, GEORGIA AND TUSCALOOSA.

From our files of papers published in the East Indies we compile the following interesting notices of the operations of the ALABAMA.

From the Calcutta Hurkaru, Jan. 12.

We have been favored by a correspondent with the following particulars regarding the Alabama:

S. S. CHEROKEE, 11th January, 1864.

On the 23d December, at 10 P. M., we arrived in Singapore. On the 24th, at 9 A. M., the Alabama steamer steamed out of the New Harbor for the Straits of Malacca. That same day she fell in with the Martaban, formerly called the Texan Star, from Moulmein to Singapore, fully laden with rice; the ship had placed herself under the British Flag, but SEMMES found some flaw in the Captain's papers, said they were false documents, and burnt her, landing the crew at Malacca.

On the 26th December, at 7 A. M., she boarded the American ships Sonora and Highlander, both lying at anchor, and about to get underweigh, 10 miles east of the North Sands light vessel. He ordered both Captains on board the Alabama, examined their papers, allowed them to take a small quantity of clothing, burnt their ships and sent them adrift in their boats, without any water or provisions.

On the 28th of December, she, the Alabama, was seen off the North Sands light-ship, dodging about. The sailors appeared like a lot of thieves, taking everything they could stow about their persons, and not appearing to take any notice of their officer. The officer himself not seeming to know much about a ship, except as regards the burning of her, and in that he was perfectly an adept. He commenced by collecting all the sailors' beds in the forecastle, all the cushions and beds in the cabin, and then pouring tar on them. They then emptied a cask of slush on the deck, and set fire to the whole. So little discipline was there, that the Alabama's men were smoking cigars in the boat that took the Captain on board the Alabama's decks. The men were lying about aft, as well as forward, smoking pipes and cigars. He was told by the men in the boat that they would like to get rid of her, (the Alabama.) But they had their ten months' pay due, which SEMMES has promised to give them by and by, as well as prize money. The ship was very dirty, and everything looking in disorder. They said the Sonora and Highlander would make seventy-two vessels they had burned. When the Captain left the Sonora in his own boat, he went alongside of the Alabama, when SEMMES somewhat hid box, to see whether he had any money or papers on board.

SEMMES gave the Captain the option to stay in the Alabama for three weeks, and at the expiration of that time to be landed wherever he might be, but he preferred going with his men. SEMMES then asked if he had any water in the boat. There was none, and SEMMES offered to tow him up to the Sonora, to get some, but when the Captain looked round for his ship she was in flames, fore and aft, so

TUESDAY, March 8—P. M.

We learn that the forthcoming U. S. Loan of $200,000,000 will bear five per cent. Interest in Gold, and that the bonds are drawn at Forty Years after date, but redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after Ten Years. The Bonds are dated March 3, the day the Supplementary Bill to amend the Loan Act of March 3, 1863, became a law. The half yearly Coupons and registered Interest will run March and September, and be paid on the first day of these months respectively. The plates have been engraved and a proof of the new Bonds was printed some days ago, and we have reason to suppose there will be no great additional delay at the Department in bringing the New Loan before the public. We are also advised that orders from abroad are already in the hands of some of our Banking firms connected with our Foreign Exchanges, conditioned that the Stock should be of the 10-40 years denomination, bearing 5 ℔ cent. and open to subscription at par. The Loan, to the full measure of the two hundred millions, will, undoubtedly, from present appearances, be a success both at home and abroad. The 5-20 years 6 ℔ cents. advanced to-day to 110 ℔ cent.

The price of Gold was rapidly advanced to-day by the speculators for the rise to 163@164½ per cent. The party in the movement are said to be backed by one or more wealthy Brokers or Bankers in Exchange-place, who hold the bag, and without shipping the gold abroad, have withdrawn it from the market for a still higher premium, if it can be realized before the action of Congress in relief of the heavy accumulation in the Treasury Office. The Customs demand to-day was $315,000. We hear of no important export demand for to-morrow's steamer. Bills on London are still relatively cheaper than Gold, though much unsettled by the violent fluctuations of the latter.

The market for Money at present low rates is made a little more active by the immense volume of speculation on high prices at the Stock Exchange. The difficulty to-day among the holders was want of time in getting through their business in Bank hours. We heard of no scarcity of Money or any advance in rates.

The subscriptions to the National Bank, for which Messrs. LAWRENCE, LOW, SKIDDY, BACOCK, ROBBINS, &c., are the Commissioners, will probably far exceed the amount to be awarded, at the office of GEORGE S. ROBBINS & SON, on Thursday. The number of this Bank will be Twelve, probably, instead of Ten, as originally designated. We understand HENRY A. SMYTHE, Esq., is to be the President.

The Stock Exchange continues very much excited, and the phrensy of speculation on the Railway and Coal Shares was generally unabated to-day, and if possible ahead of yesterday on the non-dividend paying or fancy Coal Stocks. Among the Dividend-paying shares connected with the same trade there was not so much buoyancy in Delaware and Hudson or Pennsylvania Coal, but the price of American Coal further advanced, making the rise about twenty-five per cent. in the week or ten days past. Reading was fairly steady at the close of the Second Board, at 140¼@140¾ per cent. The Railways of New-York were not so firm as yesterday, and the Westerns quite irregular, with enormous transactions in Fort Wayne, and some disposition to realize on other descriptions.

At 4 o'clock there was rather less excitement in the general market, and the following prices were made as compared with Monday afternoon. The Government Stocks brought 110 ℔ cent. for the 5-20 years' Loan, and 99½@¾ for the Treasury Certificates. The amount of the 5-20's and 1881 stock, to go forward to Europe to-morrow, we learn is unusually large, principally for the Continent. There was a fresh rise on Canton, Cumberland, and Fort Wayne after the Second Board, and Reading was also higher. The market reported firm at the close:

Mr. EDWARD DULL notices the movements in Breadstuffs, during the past fortnight, thus: "The movements in Flour for the past two weeks have been rather limited, and prices have fluctuated with the varying reports of the state of the English markets and the daily changes in the value of Sterling Exchange. This applies more particularly to the shipping grades of State and Ohio. The receipts have been light, but the business lately has been checked by the firmness of holders and the advance in Freights. For the medium and Family brands of Illinois, Indiana and Missouri there is a fair trade, but with an ample stock of this description, buyers have the advantage. The sales of Wheat for the last two months have been to such an extent as to deplete the supply on hand to less than two millions of bushels of all kinds, and with the continued firmness in England, the holders here are asking higher rates, and our quotations are well maintained. RYE is scarce and firm. For INDIAN CORN the home trade is light, but there is more or less speculative inquiry for the old crop, of which probably not more than 500,000 bushels of sound remain on hand. The export clearances from this port for the fortnight footing up: To Great Britain and Ireland, 71,823 bbls. Flour, 738,835 bushels Wheat; to China, 205 bbls. Flour; to Brazil, 6,076 bbls. Flour; to Africa, 359 bbls. Flour; to Mexico, 2,705 bbls. Flour, 9,884 bushels Corn, 1,108 bushels Oats; to all other ports, 23,132 bbls. Flour, 3,500 bushels Wheat, 3,302 bushels Corn, 5,314 bbls. Corn Meal.

TURNER & GRIEVES notice thus: "The market, for the first part of the week, ruled heavy, and a slight decline was established, partially caused by the unfavorable advices from Europe, and a larger stock on hand than was generally anticipated; but on Thursday more activity prevailed, on account of several telegrams received announcing a destructive fire raging at the wells, by which an advance was established and maintained until Saturday, when the announcement was made that our Hon. Secretary of the Treasury had recommended to the Committee of Ways and Means an additional tax of five cents ℔ gall. on Crude, and fifteen on Refined, which created quite a speculative demand for both Crude and Free, which continues to date. We now quote Crude 40°@47°, 31c.@32.; 47°@49°, 29½c.@30c. Refined, in bond, 48¾c.@50c., closing firm. Refined, free, 58c.@62c., according to quality. NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

A Cairo dispatch states that Gen. SHERMAN'S army has returned to Vicksburg, and an officer who arrived at Cairo on the 7th, from Vicksburg, confirms the arrival of Gen. SHERMAN'S forces at Jackson, with a small army of negroes, and a large number of mules, cattle, hogs, &c., the spoils of the march. A gentleman who arrived at Nashville from Montgomery, February 24th, says SHERMAN chased POLK to the Tombigbee, but could not force him to fight. In those sections of country not traversed by railroads SHERMAN found plenty of supplies, and his army lived on the country.

The death of Col. DAHLGREN is fully confirmed this morning. Admiral LEE, commanding the North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, telegraphed to the Secretary of the Navy from Yorktown, yesterday, that the gunboat Morse, which had been sent up York River to render assistance to Col. DAHLGREN'S party, on Monday last picked up five men, four soldiers, and one colored man, the servant of the Colonel. They report that the small party was surrounded by rebel cavalry and infantry, and that the Colonel was killed (how, they do not say) and afterward his body stripped and shockingly mutilated by the horrible barbarians. More than half of the small body with Col. DAHLGREN at the time were captured.

A dispatch dated at Nashville, March 7, states that Gen. SCHOFIELD has returned to Knoxville. The Federal forces were at Morristown, forty-two miles from Knoxville. The rebels were at Greenville, about seventy-four miles from Knoxville. The rebel cavalry were at Bull's Gap, fifty-six miles from Knoxville. There is a tremendous rise in the Tennessee River. The pontoon bridge was carried away at Chattanooga.

Maj. BOGLE, of the First North Carolina Colored Regiment, who was reported killed in the battle of Olustee, is now said to be a prisoner, severely wounded.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. WILSON introduced a bill providing for the better organization of the Quartermaster's Department. Referred to the Military Committee. Mr. POWELL called up his resolution for the production of the papers and evidence in the McDowell Military Commission, but, after considerable discussion, the subject was informally postponed. The bill to promote enlistments was taken up, and Mr. BROWN, of Missouri, spoke at length in favor of a general emancipation policy. The bill to equalize the pay of soldiers was taken up, and Mr. DAVIS offered an amendment providing for compensation to loyal owners of slaves taken into the service, and said he would speak at length to-day on the amendment.

In the House, yesterday, the Deficiency Bill was taken up, and most of the Senate amendments were agreed to, but owing to several other disagreements, the bill was returned to the Senate. The Gold Bill was taken up, and a substitute offered authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to anticipate the payment of interest coupons, with or without a rebate of interest, as he may deem expedient, and this substitute was adopted and the bill passed. Mr. SCHENCK, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill to drop from the rolls of the army from and after the 15th of March, all Major and Brigadier Generals, who for a period of three months prior to this date, shall not have held commands commensurate to their rank and pay. A long discussion on this bill followed, mainly between Messrs. SCHENCK and COX, which continued until the adjournment of the House.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, a great portion of the time was occupied in a sharp discussion of the Lebanon Springs Railroad Bill, which in some quarters was supposed to contain ambiguous sections, under which authority for a Broadway Railroad was hidden. The bill was recommitted to the Committee on Railroads, with directions to expunge the objectionable clauses.

In the Assembly, among other matters disposed of were the following bills which were advanced to a third reading: Relative to the building of a public market in New-York City; relative to the State Arsenal in Brooklyn; legalized the acts of the Brooklyn Common Council in issuing bonds for the relief of the families of drafted men; providing for the appointment of an additional number of Notaries Public in New-York; to provide for the better protection of seamen in the City of New-York.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Board of Supervisors met yesterday. The Corporation Counsel communicated the opinion, in answer to a resolution of inquiry, that it is altogether optional with the board whether they will pay damages to non-residents for losses of property by the riots. Mr. PURDY expressed the opinion that non-residents should not receive damages where their property is of a kind that does not contribute toward the support of the County. The board adopted a resolution appointing ANTONY EICKOFF Translator to the Courts of Record in the County, at a salary of $2,500, and another resolution was adopted granting a request of Comptroller BRENNAN, that he be allowed to appoint two additional Clerks in the County Bureau, at salaries of $1,000 and $1,200. A third resolution was unanimously adopted in favor of recommending the Legislature to repeal the act of 1855 creating the Record Commission. Thanks were voted to Gov. SEYMOUR at the instance of Mr. ELY, for securing a reduction of the State's quota of troops, whereby the county quota is reduced over 4,000, and is saved $2,000,000. The board decided to hire Nos. 159 and 161 Crosby-street, known as the "Gymnasium," as an armory for the Ninety-ninth Regiment N. Y. S. N. G., at $2,200 per year, for five years. Bills for labor and materials on the Palace Garden building, amounting to $8,070 64, were passed. The board adjourned to Tuesday next, at 3 o'clock P. M.

The Washington Republican quotes from the Cincinnati Commercial the paragraph regarding the correspondence between President LINCOLN and Secretary CHASE, which we have already published, and adds: "We do not know what motive the correspondent of the Commercial could have, if any, in stating anything more than the fact about the correspondence referred to. After the celebrated hoax appeared, attributed to Senator POMEROY, Mr. Secretary CHASE addressed a note to the President not disapproving the language of the 'Circular,' but, in tone rather apologetic, stating that he had not seen the circular until after it was published; that at the request of friends he stood in the attitude of a candidate for the Presidency, and submitted the question to the President whether he deemed his (CHASE'S) position incompatible with his duties as a member of the Cabinet. The President replied that Mr. CHASE'S position, as the head of the Treasury Department, would not be considered upon any other basis than that of the public interest, and in that light he was not then aware that he (the President) had any occasion to complain. The appearance in Mr. CHASE'S home organ of the paragraph quoted above makes this explanation necessary."

Advices from Demarara to Feb. 13, mention the arrival, on the 11th, of C. G. HANNAH, ESQ., the new American Consul, in the brig Chesapeake. The bark Christine, from St. Helena, had arrived with 159 captured Africans.

BASIL DUKE passed through Philadelphia on his way to Fort Delaware on Friday last, and was feasted at the Continental Hotel by his friends.

The Live Stock markets were supplied with 4,583 beeves, 510 calves, 9,015 sheep and 7,226 hogs during the past week. The demand is good for all kinds, excepting hogs, and everything has advanced in price. It is becoming more and more apparent that stock is scarce in the country, and an economical use is advised.... Beef cattle are higher than ever before, with a single exception, and the old sellers are not certain of getting more for their cattle in the very high markets of 1837. The advance from last week is all the way from ½c. to 1c. per lb., and some droves were sold for nearly 2c. per lb. more than similar cattle brought last week. Good fat Steers were weighed out at 16c.@16½c. ₩ lb., and a few, sold by the head, were 17c. The 3,567 at Forty-fourth-street were sold at an average of about 13¾c. ₩ lb., poor thin cows bringing 12c.... Sheep are 1c. ₩ lb. higher, and there are not enough of them. They are selling quickly at 9c. ₩ lb., and 9¾c. if choice and fat, with heavy pelts of fine wool.... Live Hogs are in less request as warm weather approaches; still prices have advanced ½c., corn-fed bringing 8c.@8½c., and Still Hogs, 7¾c.@8c.

There was continued speculative excitement in the Stock market yesterday. Gold was also higher on the speculation for the rise. Money active, but at cheap rates.

Breadstuffs opened rather briskly at rising prices, but closed heavily yesterday. Provisions were more active, and, in some instances, firmer. Groceries were in fair demand, as were also Metals, Hay, Spices, Candles, and Whisky at buoyant rates. The Freight market was more active and rates favored shipowners. Other branches of trade exhibited no remarkable alteration.

The New Phase of the German Struggle.

The two great German Powers have consented to pause in their career of conquest. After invading and taking possession of the Duchies, and just on the borders of Jutland, they are now reported to have listened to the suggestions of England, and to have consented to another Convention of the Great Powers, to be assembled again in London. Very few intelligent Germans have ever believed that Austria and Prussia were in earnest in this war. The popular impression has been that their extraordinary energy and activity were due quite as much to fear of the National party at home, as to hostility to Denmark. They were forced to a vigorous campaign, in order to retain the leadership of Germany and to keep down the Federalists.

They have, without doubt, quite won the game into their own hands from the much-dreaded popular party of Germany. The numerous small States, and the slow-moving Constitutionalists, were no match for these well-equipped military Powers, who perfectly understood their own objects. With an energy which certainly Austria never at all displayed before, the two separated from the Diet, and decided the Schleswig question with their own bayonets. But, for this very reason, all that they have accomplished for Germany will probably be but a mere sham. They have no interest in retaining the Duchies within the Confederation. They care nothing about the desires or hopes of the inhabitants of those provinces. They will be perfectly ready to yield up everything they have gained, if any plausible pretext be afforded. They have got the National party under foot, and now they will be equally ready to trample on the rights of the Duchies.

It is not improbable that England will propose in the approaching convention some compromise, such as the personal union of the Duchies under the Danish King and their real union under the Confederacy, with the removal of the offensive Constitution and the free use of the German language. The two German Powers would perhaps accept this, and Denmark would be forced to submit to it, and so a European war be avoided.

Still the position of Austria and Prussia is full of danger to themselves. The public feeling of Germany is aroused to the intensest point, in favor of incorporating the Duchies within the German Union. Any treachery of the Great Powers, or disappointment of these popular aspirations, might produce a fearful explosion among their own subjects.

The revolution is always boiling beneath the surface of Germany. There is a point beyond which even German autocrats dare not go. The Prussian King is carrying on war now from his own private credit and purse. A betrayal of the German national cause might make the gap between him and his people too wide ever to be closed.

Germany will pass through, this Spring, another of its old crises—a struggle between the popular aspirations for unity and the selfish and dynastic ambition of the princely houses. On the one side will be popular passion, enthusiasm, love of liberty and national glory, but no organization or experience; on the other, cold and selfish organized military power, which perfectly knows its objects and will hesitate at nothing to secure them. We cannot, unfortunately, doubt the issue.

The Missouri Quarrel in Congress.

A firemen's fight, while the flames are raging, is deemed a disgrace. A soldiers' fray, in the face of an enemy, is accounted a crime. We should like to know how much better than either of these was the broil between the Missouri members, in the House, during the debate for supplying means to meet the expenses of the war against the rebellion. The discussion started filly, but soon degenerated into a miserable personal altercation between the Union representatives of Missouri concerning their respective political antecedents; and this occupied the sitting until the adjournment at a late hour. We published but a small portion of what was sent us. The full report would simply have wearied and disgusted every reader.

Now we dare say that all these Union Congressmen from Missouri, personally, are very respectable men, and mean to be truly loyal. But, to express it mildly, they have a very incorrect idea of their political importance, and a very poor sense of the proprieties of time and place. A bitter quarrel has long existed between the Conservatives and the Radicals, as they style themselves, in Missouri. It is a quarrel, which, notwithstanding these names, proceeds from personal feeling, and not from political principle. We say this with confidence, because the fact is patent that loyal people in every other State have a diversity of views in respect to conservative and radical policies, and yet do not quarrel. They know that these differences are all of minor consequence, and they feel bound to act in perfect accord in the great effort to save the Union. So far as they disagree at all, they disagree as friends. They attend the same conventions, settle upon the same resolutions, support the same nominees, and, whatever their bias in theory, they practically act as a unit in all their public duties. It cannot be, then, any incompatibility of principles that produces this intestine feud among the loyal people of Missouri. There are no peculiar principles there to generate this peculiar result. It can come only from the rivalries, and the jealousies, and the resentments of the peculiar men who have the control of Missouri politics. The dominant impulse is personal, and not patriotic. Therefore it is unworthy of the loyal cause; we may say a scandal and a shame to it.

President LINCOLN, in his administration of the military department of Missouri has had, from the beginning, constant trouble with these party factions. For a time he did his best to reconcile them, but their virulence was proof against even his conciliatory spirit and practical sagacity. Instead of giving up their animosities, they each assumed to dictate what officers he should appoint, and what measures he should carry out. Instead of abandoning their quarrels, they would listen to nothing that did not help their side of the quarrel. Yet the President has managed somehow, in spite of all their harassing, to avoid any identification with either faction, and to keep the military affairs of the department, for the most part, on a line with the national interests.

The great loyal body of the people care little for this wretched personal strife, so long as it is confined to its own field; but they will never endure its being transferred to the National Capitol. It is profaning the place to make it the arena of such a paltry squabble. Their loyal representatives meet there, not to fall foul of each other because of personal grudges, but to stand by the Government and uphold it against every enemy. Least of all can the people be patient under this contention at this critical period, when the rebellion is putting forth its last desperate energies. Great measures are before Congress, calculated to put the Government in a stronger position, not the least of which is this very Deficiency Bill, which was under consideration when the Missouri feud was thrust upon the House. What conception must these Missouri men have of the earnestness of the great Union party of the North, if they suppose it capable of caring one straw how this one or that one or the other one of them stood and acted five years or ten years ago? What sensation but that of disgust can they expect to excite among truly loyal people, when they occupy these precious hours of legislation in criminations and recriminations about each other's political antecedents? What the people concern themselves about is, not the former political life of these men, but their present performance of duty. The line of that duty lies in giving right votes on the measures of the day, and in discussing them with right arguments, if at all. Whatever personal griefs or personal jealousies disquiet these Congressmen, if they cannot summon patriotic spirit enough to stifle them altogether, they should at least keep them under until they are back with their constituents, and then they might fight it out to their hearts' content—Kilkenny-cat fashion. We will guaranty that nobody shall meddle with them. All true Union men will take good care to give them as wide a berth as possible. But while they are occupying the national seats of legislation, every consideration of decency as well as of duty requires them, if they profess to be Union men, to suspend their clapper-clawing, and to join their efforts loyally for the saving of the imperiled nation.

A CONCENTRATION OF FORCES.—The Tribune is decidedly and even zealously opposed to the renomination of President LINCOLN, out of devotion to the one-term principle. The World heartily and in the most cordial manner seconds and sustains the Tribune. We congratulate our loyal neighbor on this fatuitous concurrence of opinion.

Both these journals are also startled at the proposition that it is hardly the thing for a Cabinet officer to enter the lists as a candidate against the President. The Tribune fears this will cut off all freedom of choice in the selection of candidates; and the World, while sharing this apprehension, is also alarmed lest the country should not get the best man of the two. Considering the gallons of ink that journal has shed in the effort to convict Mr. CHASE of stupidity, ignorance, venality and disloyalty to the Union, we have little doubt its grief will be very sincere if he should not be nominated for the Presidency. The Tribune's fears we cannot consider so real. We have never said a syllable against the propriety of Mr. CHASE'S being a candidate for President, nor would we fetter in the slightest degree the Tribune's "freedom of choice" in the selection. What we did say was, that if Mr. CHASE has made up his mind to be a candidate, and to run upon a different platform from that of the President, and to use the patronage of his Department to aid himself and injure the President, his own sense of delicacy and propriety would probably induce him to resign his Cabinet office. Does not the Tribune concur in this estimate of his good judgment?

THE REBEL PIRATES—RAVAGES AND WHEREABOUTS OF THE ALABAMA.—We print this morning some very interesting extracts from our East Indian and European files, concerning the number and whereabouts of the rebel pirates, particularly the Alabama. The public was much disappointed, some time ago, to learn that the report of the blockade of the Alabama, at Amoy, China, was untrue. It was not only not true, but it appears that the Alabama never was further eastward than Singapore, in the Straits of Malacca. From there she sailed on the 24th of December, having taken on board 300 tons of coal, and the same day fell in with the bark Texan Star, otherwise called Martaban, from Moulmein, Burmah, for Singapore, with a cargo of rice. The particulars of the destruction of this vessel are well known. The pirate kept on her course up the Straits, and two days later burned the American ships Sonora and Highlander, both at anchor off North Sands (Sumatra) light-ship. The next heard of her was, that she was in the Gulf of Martaban, about fifty miles south of Rangoon, Burmah. She then seems to have crossed over the Bay of Bengal, swept around Cape Comorin, the southern extremity of India, and sailed up the western coast of that country; for we next hear of the capture of the bark Emma Jane, on the 14th of January, off Ajenga, on the southwestern coast of India. This is the last positive information of her whereabouts, though it was generally supposed she would pursue her course up the coast and touch at Bombay, as the Times of India, (Bombay,) of January 23, speaks of it as not at all unlikely. That journal urged the people to show no favor to the pirates. From these movements it would seem that SEMMES has given up for the present any intention he may have had of visiting the Chinese seas and Pacific Ocean, and we may possibly hear of him next in the vicinity of Cape Town again, as he is probably aware of the absence of the Vanderbilt. The other pirates are the Tuscaloosa, now seized by British authority at Cape Town; the Florida, just escaped from Brest; the Georgia, lately escaped from Cherbourg; the Rappahannock, under surveillance at Calais; and the Pampero, lately seized in the Clyde. The Georgia and Florida will doubtless soon be heard from in their work of destruction.

THE AMENDMENT RATIFIED.—The very reasonable anticipation that the people would indorse the amendment to the State Constitution, permitting soldiers to exercise the right of suffrage, was verified by the election held yesterday. The bald justice of the proposition was so palpable, and loyal men felt so well assured that the opposition to the measure would be weak, that there was much carelessness about going to the polls. No special effort was made to roll up a heavy vote; and, judging from the complete returns of this City and Brooklyn, about one-third of the vote ordinarily cast at gubernatorial elections was delivered. Although it would have been vastly more gratifying for the brave fellows who have forsaken home and friends, and risked their lives for the preservation of the national existence, to have received the just compliment of a full vote in a case where there has been little question of their deserts, we are not disposed to complain of the result. It is always difficult in elections, under circumstances marking that yesterday, to overcome the indolence and passiveness of the electors, and had it not been for the services of professional politicians, in this City at least, the amendment might actually have been floored through the sheer indifference of its friends. The Copperheads came out, presumably, in their full strength against it, seldom with an open ballot, but furtively, as is their nature. Our tables show that of the 25,000 votes cast, 6,899 were against the soldiers' rights. Indeed, three of the Wards of the City—the First, Sixth and Fourteenth—have won the disgraceful victory of giving small Copperhead majorities. As a set-off to them the Thirty-second Precinct only opposed the amendment by six votes, and the entire City of Brooklyn gave but 600 in the negative against 8,235 in favor.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The unmistakable success of "Faust" leaves the journalist nothing to do but to record its repetition, and to state the significant fact that the house was filled to its greatest capacity. No opera of the modern repertoire has seized the public with so firm a grasp. The annals of music, in truth, hardly hint at its parallel. Some of the best accepted works of the present day were failures on their production, but "Faust" has won instantly the sympathies of every audience, and from the start has been a favorite. The distribution last night restored Miss KELLOGG to her right place as the heroine. No one can fill it so gracefully, modestly and dramatically. Her reception was, of course, genial and kindly; how could it be otherwise in view of her great appreciation of the rôle and her talent in interpreting it? The feast in other respects was the same as heretofore, and gave abundant satisfaction to an audience, literally overflowing in every part of the House.

To-night (Wednesday) MOZART'S opera of "Don Giovanni," will be given. The cast includes nearly all the artists of Mr. MAretzek's troupe.

THE LATE CAVALRY RAID.

Col. Dahlgren's Death Confirmed—Sketch of His Military Career.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 8.

The Secretary of the Navy, this evening, received the following dispatch from Admiral LEE, commanding South Atlantic Blockading Squadron:

YORKTOWN, Tuesday, March 8, 1864.

The gunboat Morse, Lieut.-Commander BABCOCK, left here Sunday, 6th inst., at noon, to afford relief to Col. DAHLGREN'S party. On Monday, 7th inst., at 7 A. M., near West Point, the Morse picked up five men who had been attracted by her signal guns, and were guided to the river by friendly negroes, who provided them with a boat. Four of these were Col. DAHLGREN'S white soldiers, and one was his colored servant. They represent that Col. DAHLGREN'S party were surrounded by cavalry and infantry; that DAHLGREN was killed, and that they saw more than one-half of his men afterward give themselves up as prisoners. Col. DAHLGREN'S servant says that he saw the Colonel's naked body, which had been stripped, with the ring finger cut off.

Sketch of Col. Dahlgren's Military Career.

The rumored death of Col. ULRIC DAHLGREN seems to be confirmed by intelligence published in the Richmond Sentinel of the 5th inst.

The writer hereof parted with Col. DAHLGREN on Sunday night, the 28th day of February, just after he had crossed the Rapidan at Ely's Ford, with 500 men as the advance of Gen. KILPATRICK'S column. Brave almost to rashness, and prompted by as high order of patriotism as ever inspired a hero, he was the man of all others to lead a daring enterprise. He started with a gallant band of picked men on as sublime and holy a mission as ever was devised, and being young, brave, of sanguine temperament, and indomitable energy, looked forward to certain success. During Sunday, the 29th, he perfected his plan of operations with the most scrupulous care, and while fully realizing the desperate character of the expedition, expressed a willingness to sacrifice his own life in an effort to rescue his brave countrymen from the Bastile in which they have been for months confined wearing out miserable life. The release of these men seemed to be the highest object of his ambition. He has fallen, and the grave has closed over one of the most manly forms that has succumbed during the present war. He died just where he would have wished most to die—fighting the enemies of the Union.

At the breaking out of the war, deceased held a position in the navy, and at the attack on Fort Sumter was traveling in the Southwestern States. Great inducements were offered to induce him to serve the rebel cause. Fired with indignation, he made his way to Washington, and applied for and received an appointment as Aid—under a law since repealed—with a Captain's commission. His first service was with Gen. RUFUS SAXON, under Gen. FREMONT, where he rendered important service, and particularly at the hardly-contested fight known in history as "Cross Keys." Upon Gen. FREMONT being relieved, he sought service upon the staff of Gen. SIGEL, who then commanded the front, and had his headquarters at Fairfax Court-house. Those familiar with the events of the Fall of 1862 will remember that after the battle of Antietam, and while the two armies were looking at each other across the Upper Potomac, the whole northern portion of Virginia was overrun with daring bands of bushwhackers, WHITE and MOSBY being the most noted leaders. To exterminate these fellows Gen. SIGEL called a number of brave spirits to his assistance, among whom were the Colonel, then Capt. DAHLGREN, Capt. KRONIG, (since killed in Western Virginia under AVERILL,) Capt. CONGER, (seriously wounded in a fight near Bristoe Station,) and Lieut CONGER, his brother, both of the Third Virginia (Union) Cavalry. These officers were constantly on the move with small detachments of cavalry—scouting all through the country north of the Rappahannock, harassing the enemy, obtaining important information, and frequently making important captures, and always doing the cause good service. The most prominent of these gallant officers was Col. DAHLGREN; always ready for the most hazardous enterprises, and yet cool and reliable, he was frequently selected to obtain information as to the position and intentions of the enemy. On one occasion he made a dash across the Rappahannock and into the City of Fredericksburgh, whipping a force of 300 rebel cavalry in the streets of the town and causing them to disperse, with the loss of only one man killed and five wounded. The exact force the rebels had in town at this time was ascertained from a private letter written by an officer of the command giving an account of the "daring raid," as he called it, and stating that the commanding officer was the bravest Union officer he had ever seen. Ever eager for active service, when Gen. SIGEL'S command moved toward Fredericksburgh on the 13th of December—Capt. DAHLGREN moved to the front in advance, and offered his services to Gen BURNSIDE, which were accepted, and he was actively engaged during what is known as the first battle of Fredericksburgh. When Gen. SIGEL was relieved from command, Capt. DAHLGREN obtained permission to act on the staff of Maj.-Gen. HOOKER, then in command of the Army of the Potomac. While here he distinguished himself, and secured by his gallant conduct the friendship not only of the Commanding-General, but also of all his military family. He took a prominent part at Chancellorsville, and was selected to run the guantlet of rebel rifles between Falmouth and Kelly's, a distance of 25 miles, to communicate with Gen. STONEMAN the morning his command reached that place, returning from the well-known raid to the vicinity of Richmond, and in rear of LEE'S army.

When the enemy made their second move into Maryland, in June and July, 1863, Capt. DAHLGREN was still doing duty at the Headquarters of the Army of the Potomac. He solicited permission to take one hundred men and pass round the enemy and cutting his line of communication by destroying the pontoon bridge across the Potomac near Williamsport and Falling Water. Not fully appreciating the energy of the man, his project was considered too hazardous; but, finally, he was allowed to take ten men. With this small command he destroyed the enemy's pontoons, and returned in safety to headquarters. He then again called for and obtained one hundred men to go round the rebel army, for the purpose of destroying his trains and gaining information. In this affair he was eminently successful. Besides capturing a special messenger from JEFF DAVIS, bearing an order for LEE to leave Pennsylvania, he destroyed a rebel train of 170 wagons, relieved a town of the presence of a rebel brigade of cavalry, and when finally overpowered by superior numbers and completely surrounded, he ordered his men to disperse and subsequently nearly all came into our lines again. After the battle of Gettysburgh, he took the advance with Gen. KILPATRICK'S Cavalry, and on Monday, July 6, with Lieut.-Col. BRINTON, Capt. LINDSAY, (killed,) Capt. SNYDER, (killed,) Capt. CHAUNCEY, (wounded,) Lieut. CAMPBELL, (wounded,) he led a squadron of the Eighteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, in a charge into Hagerstown. While skirmishing with the enemy in the town, a ball struck the ankle bone of his right foot, and passed out through the top of his foot.

As the ball struck him, he said to the writer, in a jocular way peculiar to himself, "PAUL, I have got it at last," and together we rode to the rear to find a surgeon. Unfortunately an attempt was made to save his foot, and, as a consequence when amputation was resorted to, it nearly cost him his life. From July to December he was confined to his room. The President recognized his services by appointing him Colonel of the Third United States Volunteer Cavalry, (a regiment not yet raised,) with a commission dating back to the 6th of July. As soon as he could leave his room he visited his father, Admiral DAHLGREN, of Charleston, and the day of his return to Washington, three weeks ago, meeting the writer, he expressed a wish for active service. Learning of the proposed raid, he asked and obtained permission to take a part—the last and crowning act of his life.

Col. DAHLGREN was only about 22 years old, tall in stature and sparely built; a warm friend, but resolute and quick to resent a real insult. Admired by all for his manly traits, he was loved by all for his genial, social qualities. His name will ever be fresh in the memory of all who knew him, and his untimely end will nerve the arms of his old associates to strike harder blows than ever for the cause of the Union.

The Lebanon Springs Railroad and the Broadway Railroad—A Sharp Debate—The Harlem River, &c.

ALBANY, Tuesday, March 8.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

In the Senate, this morning, a local measure was made to assume an undue importance, and occasioned a sharp debate. A bill entitled "An Act to amend the charter of the Lebanon Springs Railroad," which passed the Senate a few days since, and was sent to the Assembly, was returned on request of the Senate, made on motion of Senator FOLGER. Notices of this bill have appeared in some of the newspapers, headed "Legislation on the Sly," and in these notices it has been intimated that a Broadway railroad bill was concealed in this Lebanon Springs Railroad bill. When the question of reconsidering the vote by which this bill was passed, was by unanimous consent entertained by the Senate, Senator FOLGER explained that he had made the motion to recall the bill for reasons which were in part known to the Senate. It was generally believed that there was a sly project concealed in the bill. It was judicious for the Senate to examine into the grounds of this general opinion. He did not think that Senators who had felt a special interest in obtaining the passage of the bill had intended to mislead other Senators, but they had been themselves deceived. He had learned that a gentleman applying at a bank in New-York, for a loan on Harlem security, had been informed by the banker that he could receive fifty per cent. on the stock. The banker was informed that Harlem stock was rising. It was said, in confidence, that a bill had passed one House of the Legislature, and been favorably reported by the Railroad Committee of the other, authorizing the Harlem Company to put down a track in Broadway. The banker stated that he had watched the course of legislation at Albany, but had seen no indication of any such action. In great confidence it was then whispered that the Lebanon Springs Railroad bill contained the desired grant. The gentleman to whose knowledge these facts had come had, on the cars crossing from New-York to Albany, heard bets made of one hundred dollars against fifty that the Harlem Company would lay down a track in Broadway in less than six months. As the Lebanon Springs Railroad bill provided that the Lebanon Company might consolidate with any company with whose railroad their road connected, and that the privileges of their road should be conferred upon the consolidated company, it was difficult to say what advantages might be taken of the bill if it became a law. While he could not detect a Broadway railroad in the bill, he could see that the Harlem Company might consolidate with the Lebanon, and just what rights the Harlem might gain by the consolidation, under ambiguous sections of the bill, he could not tell. It would be safe for the Senate to examine into the matter. He feared that special friends of the bill had been deceived. He did not accuse them of any wrong intentions whatever. This last remark applied especially to Senators DURCAN and HASTINGS. Senator DURCAN thought it unfair to make such insinuations as had been made by the public press, and, he regretted to add, by a Senator. He stated in reply to an inquiry that he did not refer to Senator FOLGER. Senator HASTINGS was confident that if anybody had been made the tool of designing managers, it was not the special friends of the bill. It might be those who had been made use of to recall the bill, or, perhaps, defeat it. Senator SHAFER had witnessed with mortification and sorrow the scene which had been presented in the Senate chamber. To recall a bill upon such a slight pretext, to take such action as had been taken because of conversation which had occurred in the office of a bank or in a railroad car, was beneath the dignity of the Senate. It was a disgrace to that body. While he honored the ability and integrity of the Senator who had been instrumental in bringing about what had just occurred, (FOLGER,) he greatly feared that for once he had been misled and made the tool of some operator. He would inquire who could fail to see the finger of some stock-jobbing operator in the whole transaction.

Other Senators continued to debate at length. Senator MURPHY thought the bill at least ambiguous, and was, therefore, prepared to vote for a reconsideration. Senator COZANS thought the Harlem Company might gain the benefit of the general Railroad Corporation Act under this act, if passed. The Senate finally reconsidered the vote, and the bill was recommitted to the Railroad Committee with instructions to strike out the doubtful clauses.

The Senate also considered the Hudson River Improvement Bill, and after some discussion made it special order for this evening.

The Assembly have made the militia question the special order for Thursday next. The plan of the Military Committee, which has already been reported to the House in the shape of an amendment to the existing law providing for a National Guard, will then come up for consideration.

Much interest is felt here, as elsewhere, in the special election held to-day.

The bill relative to the New-York District Courts was referred back on motion of Mr. LAIMBEER.

The Lebanon Springs Railroad Bill was returned from the Assembly and its passage reconsidered.

Mr. FOLGER stated that suspicions of Senators that the bill contained more than was apparently contemplated were first aroused by the conversation and conduct of gentlemen outside of this city, and, although not prepared to say that such was the case, he thought there was sufficient ground to justify the Senate in reviewing its action.

Messrs. HASTINGS and DURCAN denied that there was anything concealed, and that there is anything in the measure that can possibly be construed as affecting in any way the Broadway grant; and also emphatically denied that any attempt had been made to deceive the Senate.

The debate was continued by Messrs. SHAFER, MURPHY, COZANS, ANGEL and ANDREWS, when, on motion of Mr. DURCAN, the bill was referred back, with instructions to strike out the clause to which exceptions have been taken.

The bill was subsequently amended according to instructions, and reported complete.

The remainder of the session was occupied in the consideration of the Hudson River Improvement. Progress was reported. Recess.

Movements of Gen. Grant.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 8.

About a quarter to 10 to-night Gen. GRANT, accompanied by several military friends, visited the White House, the President at the time holding his public reception. He came in unannounced, and was evidently embarrassed. The President being made aware of his presence, approached and shook him by the hand. The meeting was mutually cordial. The Secretary of State accompanied the General to the east room, and on entering it the entire crowded assembly gave him repeated cheers, and there was a general rush to shake him by the hand. No reception could have been more cordial. The Secretary of War was sent for, and other prominent officers soon after reached the White House.

Arrangements were made to serenade Gen. GRANT, but he had not returned to his hotel at 12½ o'clock.

PROSECUTIONS COMMENCED.

In vindication of their own rights and for the protection of the public, the undersigned have resolved to invoke the aid of the law in all cases in which their celebrated Perfume, "The Night Blooming Cereus," is or may be counterfeited or simulated. An injunction has already been obtained from the Supreme Court against certain jobbing houses of this City prohibiting them from selling a preparation purporting to be the Night Blooming Cereus, made by D. & G. A. Wright, of Philadelphia. A prosecution has been commenced in Philadelphia, and others will be instituted here forthwith. The law of this State, on the subject, is simple and to the point. It constitutes the copying or counterfeiting of trade-marks a criminal offence, as also the sale of the articles which bear the fraudulent symbols. This law will be enforced to the utmost by the subscribers against all who trench upon their rights, as sole manufacturers and proprietors of the Night Blooming Cereus for the Handkerchief.

This rare perfume, it is admitted, cannot be successfully imitated. The secret of its preparation is confined to the firm who manufacture and own it. Labels, however, are more easily copied than subtle chemical combinations, and it is therefore intended that the enterprise of the individuals who hope to cheat the public by mock externals, shall be promptly suppressed by the strong hand of Justice. Colds, Coughs. Sudden changes of climate are sources of Pulmonary and Bronchial affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stage of disease, recourse should at once be had to BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES, or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. Soldiers should have them, as they can be carried in the pocket and taken as occasion requires.

Morton's Gold Pens are now sold at the same prices as before the commencement of the war; this is entirely owing to the Manufacturer's improvements in machinery, his present large Retail Business and Cash-in-Advance System; for, until he commenced advertising, his business was done on Credit and strictly with the Trade.

The Morton Gold Pens are the only ones sold at old prices, as the makers of all other gold pens charge the Premium on the Gold, Government Tax, &c.; but Morton has in no case changed his prices, Wholesale or Retail.

Of the great numbers sent by mail to all parts of the world during the past few years, not one in a thousand has failed to reach its destination in safety; showing that the Morton Gold Pen can be obtained by any one, in every part of the world, at the same price, postage only excepted.

Reader, you can have an enduring, always ready, and reliable Gold Pen, exactly adapted to your hand and style of writing, which will do your writing vastly cheaper than Steel Pens; and at the present almost universal High-Pressure Price of everything, you can have a Morton Gold Pen cheaper, in proportion to the labor spent upon it and material used, than any other Gold Pen in the World. If you want one, see "The Pen is Mightier than the Sword." in another column.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH CURED.

No. 420 SIXTH-AV., NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1863.

I was deaf for several years, and hearing of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I was induced to place myself under his care, and I am now happy to state that my hearing was entirely restored after a short treatment. I was also suffering from chronic catarrh, of which I was also cured by the skillful treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I do but justice to the Doctor in stating that in treating me he displayed that skill and knowledge which have already procured for him such a deserved reputation, and that the principles which direct his system of curing Deafness and Catarrh are such as to render success certain, in my opinion. Many months have passed since Dr. Von Eisenberg restored my hearing, and it continues as good as ever.

CATARRH CURED.

READ!

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were constantly obstructed with a pouring fluid. That frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, often attended with a fullness of my throat, great soreness, and a continual dropping. Dr. Von Eisenberg has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I may, indeed, say that I feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg is as skillful as it is successful. It is in my opinion impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured.

HARLEM, July 30, 1863.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

WILLIAM LIDDLE,
Harlem, 126th-st., between 3d and 3d avs.

No. 134 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by almost eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain. JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. I file with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

READ.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

CHICAGO AND GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY,
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,
FOR $2,000,000.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED WITH
Messrs. SCHUCHARDT & GEBHARD, Bankers,
No. 21 Nassau-st., New-York.

The Chicago and Great Eastern Railway Company now offer for sale one million one hundred thousand dollars of their first mortgage bonds, in sums of one thousand dollars each, maturing in thirty years, bearing interest at the rate of Seven per cent. per annum, payable in the City of New-York, on the first days of April and October, in each year.

These bonds are secured by a first and only Mortgage on the property, income and franchises of the Railway Company, executed to Frederick Schuchardt and Henry Morgan, of the City of New-York, Trustees.

The remaining nine hundred thousand dollars of the Bonds are set apart and remain in the hands of the said Trustees, for the purpose of being exchanged for the indebtedness of the Chicago and Cincinnati Railroad Company, running from La Crosse to Logansport; this effected, the $2,000,000 will form a First and only mortgage on a line of road 310 miles in length, extending from Chicago to Logansport, where it connects with the Cincinnati and Chicago Air-line Railroad, forming the shortest line by 40 miles, between Chicago and Cincinnati, and by 30 miles the shortest line between Louisville and Chicago.

It will also open, in connection with roads now in operation, entirely new and very direct lines from Chicago to New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and all Eastern cities. The distance between Chicago and New-York by this route being shorter than by either of the existing lines via Dunkirk or Buffalo.

The road is now under contract, and the most strenuous efforts are being made to have it open for traffic during the Summer of 1864.

The interest on the Bonds maturing during the progress of the work has been provided for, and will remain on deposit with the Bankers of the Company, Messrs SCHUCHARDT & GEBHARD, No. 21 Nassau-st., to whom the Company refer for further particulars, and where subscription books for this loan have been opened.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 50 Lispenard-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. DR. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris, and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health call: it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 50 Lispenard-st. Call, send, or write.

SPEEDY RELIEF AND SURE CURE GUARANTEED.—Therefore, let no false delicacy prevent your immediate application to DR. POWERS. Dr. POWERS, successfully consulted with DR. WARD, No. 50 Lispenard-st. Conducted on the plan of the Hospitals des Veneriens, Paris, where those afflicted with any form of private disease can receive scientific treatment without risk or exposure—viz.: Syphilis, gonorrhœa, gleet, stricture, ulcers, tumors, cancers, secondary and constitutional syphilis, diseases of the kidneys, &c., &c. Thirty years of extensive practice, exclusively devoted to the treatment of those complaints, enable us to effect cures in cases where others of less experience have failed. Dr. Powers' Essence of Life restores the vigor of youth in four weeks. This marvelous agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitution—physical disqualifications, impediments to marriage, speedily cured. Fee men to consult. Drs. Ward and Powers, the champions and healings of venereal diseases, possessing the most certain, speedy and only effectual remedies in the world. Those who have used their preventives are never without. Send or a circular. To Ladies.—Dr. Powers' Periodical Drops are a safe and certain remedy for monthly irregularities. The above remedies sent by mail. The afflicted should read their circular. Postage free, on receipt of a stamp. Cures warranted.

AFFLICTED RESTORED! IGNORANCE EXPOSED! FALLACIES UNMASKED!—Highly important to both sexes, married or single, in health or disease. Mailed for $1, closely sealed, by the publisher, E. WARNER, No. 1 Vesey-st., Astor House.

All who would avoid unsuccessful and barbarous treatment with mercury, copaiba, injections, cauterizations, quack specifics, antidotes, instruments, &c., should read this original book, or consult the Doctor, No. 173 Broadway, (up stairs,) N. Y., from 10 to 5.

Mauriceau, Professor of Diseases of Women, designed especially for the married, or those about to be married, points out the mode of treatment to remove obstructions, irregularities, or her other ailments, as mother or wife, with the causes and symptoms, and what best to do. THE REBEL PIRATES.

commission, and with the Severn in Bombay Harbor, the fact ought to be clearly ascertained.

But leaving these considerations aside, and all regard for the substantial justice of the Northern cause we simply insist here, that if we are to sympathize, with weakness, simply for itself, our sympathies can not rightly be demanded by the Alabama.

The opinions of Englishmen are changing with regard to the South, as reason reasserts its power over sentiment. We are beginning to feel with regard to the Confederate cruisers, that it has been a criminal indifference on our part which allowed them the freedom of the seas; and that, if the letter of the law gave them an unhappy opportunity, it should have been at once closed, and this great scandal prevented.

Who, we ask, is the better for the 72 ships which have been burned by the Alabama? Is the Confederate cause the better? We trow not. Or is England the better, for the exasperation which their destruction has raised, and with a great show of justice, against her throughout the North? What shall we be the better for the 72 ships which have been burned or scuttled? If it should turn out that, after all, they are English property;—and that we have to indemnify their American owners to the utmost farthing for their loss? And this is not an impossible contingency. The arrest of the Alexandra is an admission that the Alabama ought not to have been allowed to leave Liverpool, and we may be legally responsible for all her depredations. At least, it is altogether premature to decide that the property SEMMES has destroyed is American, for it may yet have to be made good by the British tax-payer. Should the North, in the close of the war, make the demand, our appeal will not be to arms, but to the law. A fine of two millions sterling on this account, would be peculiarly poignant to the national sense; but it would be a cheap sum to pay for nullifying the dangerous principle that Semmes' miserable exploits must introduce into international relations, unless condemned in some such way, by the conscience of England and Europe. The danger of the principle is at once apparent, if we for a moment contemplate our referring the question of indemnity to the arbitration of France. Would France say—pay, or not pay? If she should award the latter, would not her motive at once be clear, the hope of being able some day to serve us as we have permitted Capt. SEMMES and his (English) crew to serve the Northern States? We deeply regret that the Alabama should be visiting these shores, and we hope that she will come and go without any notice being taken of her officers and crew, that might appear to the Confederates or to the people of the United States, of the nature of respect or congratulation.

THE PAMPERO.

From the London Times, Feb. 23.

On Saturday, the Solicitor-General of Scotland (Mr. YOUNG) was heard before Lord ORMIDALE, in reply for the Crown, on the objections to the information in the case of the vessel Pampero, lately seized in the Clyde. He said that this case was the second that had arisen under the Foreign Enlistment Act, the only other case being that of the Alexandra, with which the present one was identical in character, however much it might vary in circumstances. The facts might entitle the Crown to a verdict in the one case and not in the other, yet on all legal questions occurring under the statute they were precisely alike. Exactly the same information had been presented, and if the crown's interpretation of the statute was right in the one case it was also right in the other. No doubt the information was exceedingly long, consisting of 98 counts, but, as stated by the Lord Chief Baron in the Alexandra case, all the counts resolved at last into this question—was the vessel, as it stood at the time of the seizure, liable to forfeiture under the statute? He thought the learned counsel for the defenders were wrong in urging their objections at this stage. It was no doubt competent for the court to decide upon questions of relevancy before trial, but it was equally competent, and would have been more convenient, to raise any legal question at or after the trial. The defenders had asked the Judge by interlocutor to reserve their objections, but this course was objected to by the Crown on the ground that they were not entitled to reserve by expression anything that was not reserved in the statute by implication, and that to introduce express reservations in this way would lead to confusion and uncertainty in the course of practice in such cases. In the Alexandra case the same objections had been taken, but not in the way of attempting to prevent the case going to trial. There were two courses which it would be open for the court at the trial to take—either to direct the jury as to the meaning of the statute, and leave that direction to be challenged by exception, or to ask the jury to dispose of the facts on the assumption that the information was good in law, leaving that question to be decided on the motion to apply the verdict. With regard to the objection that "to cruise and commit hostilities" was not the intent of the equipper, he admitted that the construction of the seventh clause of the statute was awkward, but he maintained that these words expressed the employment of the ship, and not the intent of the equipper. The equipper intended that the ship should be employed to cruise and commit hostilities; but while that was the intent with which the ship was equipped, the employment was to be by somebody else to whom the ship was to be handed over. As to the objection that the word "arm" was not charged with reference to the alleged cruiser, it might be that the equipment did not proceed to the extent of arming, and yet that the equipment was made with the extent that the ship should cruise and commit hostilities. It might be that they could get no evidence further than the act of equipment, and that they could not prove the ultimate intention to arm; but if they could prove that the equipment, however short of arming it might have come, was made for warlike purposes, then they could get a conviction under the act. Suppose the ship to be an iron-clad, and that sailors and provisions only were put on board, would it be reasonable to suppose that the vessel was only built for a pleasure cruise? If it could be proved by evidence or admission of the parties that the vessel was not intended for a mercantile but a hostile purpose, a purpose of committing hostilities against the United States, a nation with which Her Majesty was at peace, then the Crown would be entitled to a conviction under the act. It was not necessary to prove arming if they could prove the hostile purpose. In conclusion, the Solicitor-General asked the Judge, without regard to the defender's objections, to send the case for trial. The case was adjourned till to-day.

THE TUSCALOOSA.

A BRITISH SHIP BOARDED.

The following account of the boarding of the British ship East, of Liverpool, on her passage from London to Bombay, by the Confederate cruiser Tuscaloosa, is extracted from a letter received from one of the officers of the ship:

"About noon on Friday, the 9th October, 1863, in lat. 3° north, lon. 33° west, having at the time a fresh breeze with heavy rain, observed a bark on our port quarter, apparently a merchant vessel, which showed American colors and signalized that she wished to speak with us. Capt. CALLENDER immediately hauled up the crossjack and mainsail, hauled down the staysails and backed the mizentopsail. About 2 P. M. she crossed our stern and ranged up on our lee quarter, when we were ordered rather imperiously by some one on the quarter-deck to heave to. The order not being attended to, she sheered off a little further, triced up her ports, and fired a blank gun, at the same time hoisting the Confederate flag. A number of her crew were stationed on her quarter-deck with rifles, which they kept firing off whenever any of our crew showed themselves in an exposed situation, but the man at the helm seemed to be their principal aim, as several balls were found on the deck close to him. The first round-shot they fired (which, judging from the report, seemed to be about a 12-pounder, passed overhead close by the mainmast, the second in the same line, and the third, evidently intended to disable our rudder, fell a few feet short of the quarter. The wind having fallen lighter prevented us from heading the bark, and as both vessels lay parallel to each other, any shot might have picked off some of our crew and injured some of our spars. The Captain therefore deemed it prudent to heave to. The firing ceased; a boat was lowered and manned by four armed men and an officer, who, on arriving on board and having examined our papers, apologised for detaining us, and said that as our ship was so much like an American-built ship they suspected we were deceiving them by hoisting the English ensign, and more especially as we made all sail to get away from her as soon as she fired the first shot. In answer to our inquiries as to the name of the vessel, the boat's crew did not seem inclined to be communicative, but we understood she was called the Tuscaloosa, and had been captured by the Alabama, which vessel they had left a short time previous off the Cape of Good Hope. She is a sharp-looking bark of about 250 or 300 tons, with a narrow white streak along the gunwale. They had been doing what they could to make her something man-of-war like, but her sails and rigging aloft presented a seedy appearance. During the quarter of an hour which elapsed from the time we made sail until we hove to, ten round shots were fired at us, and the rifle balls we could not compute (say about 30.) Immediately on the return of her boat alongside she dipped her ensign to us in token of good-bye, and stood away southward, we also making all sail and standing on our course.

P. S.—I forgot to mention after she fired the first shot we filled on our yards and endeavored to get out of her reach, and had the breeze kept up we would soon have done so, as we could sail much faster than she."

THE FLORIDA.

A letter from Brest to the London Herald says:

"I regretted very much arriving in Brest a day too late to visit the Confederate ship-of-war Florida. The Florida is away again, and it may be useful to state that the crew consists of a few Irishmen, a great many Austrians, some Belgians and quite a number of Italians. This is reliable. The officers, I was told, are fine fellows, and the crew are picked men, who will give a good account of any equal number of the Federals.

From the European Times.

The Confederate cruiser Florida has most effectually eluded her pursuers. The night she left was dark and stormy, the wind being S. E., and she took the Pass de Roy Channel, going between the Saints safely to sea. The last heard of the United States steamer Kearsage was four or five days previously, when she was spoken by a Brest pilot boat sixteen miles S. W. of that port.

THE ELECTIONS YESTERDAY.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT RATIFIED.

Soldiers Declared Entitled to Their Rights.

ABOUT A ONE-THIRD VOTE POLLED.

Triumph of the Union Party in New-Hampshire.

The election, yesterday, on the proposed amendment giving to soldiers and sailors absent on service the right to vote, resulted, as was anticipated it would, in a vote largely in favor of the amendment. Loyal citizens did not take the interest in it that they should, and the vote is only a partial indication of the feeling on the question. Very many did not know that an election was being held; around the polls were none of the usual indications—the booths, the ticket-boxes, the pot-house politicians, &c. On the plugs or in pockets, for the most part, were deposited the ballots by the zealous Union men who worked at the polls and offered to voters the affirmative ballots. The opposition managers, much stronger than was expected, were secret, shunned the daylight, and, sneaking from the gaze of honest men, did their work in the byeways and holes away from the polls. New-York means emphatically that the soldiers and sailors shall vote, but was too busy to make assurance doubly sure on the question of the amendment. Had it been suspected that the Copperheads would have made the effort they did, the loyal vote would have been overwhelming.

The following is the vote as returned last evening from the different Police Precincts:

Prec'ts.	Yes.	No.	Prec'ts.	Yes.	No.

16	1196	251
17	1042	624	Total	16401	6879
Majority				9522

NOTE.—Precincts Nos. 24, 25 and 26 contain no polling places, being mere stations, viz.: Police Boat No. 1, No. 300 Mulberry-street and the City Hall. The above is the full vote of the City.

The Union citizens went up to the ballot-box with smiles upon their countenances, and cheerfully voted for the rights of the elector while employed in the defence of his country. In some instances they presented an open ballot, and evinced a pride in embracing an opportunity to do justice to our absent citizens. But not so with the opponents of this wise and proper measure. The Copperhead was invariably overflowing with poisonous hatred, and when he dared, would give vent to his feelings of detestation of the soldier and the Government of the United States. Some of these fellows, reeking with the odors of bad rum and tobacco, and fresh from a low pot-house in the neighborhood of the polls, handed their ballots to the inspector, with a seeming wish that they could place a serpent inside of them to sting to death every one and everything that favored the adoption of the constitutional amendment.

Two Germans came up to a fire-hydrant, from the top of which were distributed the ballots. They were handed ballots by a fellow-countryman in favor of the proposed amendment, and asked to vote for the soldiers. They said they would not, as it would be helping LINCOLN, and they wished ballots to vote against him and his troops. Another German, a loyal Democrat, an acquaintance of these men, then came up, and got an affirmative ballot. He asked them to vote his ticket, but they peremptorily declined. A brief conversation then ensued on the objects of the election. Finding that the two Copperheads could not be induced to change their minds, the loyal German said to them, in an indignant tone, "Do you want to kill the Democratic party?" No answer was returned. The parties separated. The loyal German deposited his vote for the rights of the soldier, and felt that he had only done his duty to those who risk their lives in defence of their country.

Many a good Union man was to be found among the Irish. A son of the Emerald Isle, pretty well advanced in years, and poorly clad for this inclement season of the year, approached a Union ticket depositary and obtained a ballot in favor of the amendment to the Constitution. As he was proceeding to the poll-room, another Irishman stopped him and told him not to vote that ticket, as it would be a vote for the "nagers." The voter looked at the man, and said, in a very emphatic manner, "Be jabers, I shall vote for the poor soldier." And so he did, and the Copperhead crawled away in search of easier prey.

One strong party man, a Democrat, voted for the amendment on the ground that all the votes of the soldiers would be given to McCLELLAN for President. "I am," says he, "a McCLELLAN man, and the Republicans will get mistaken if they think the soldiers will vote for LINCOLN."

A Copperhead of the most venomous kind proclaimed that the election of the ticket would give "niggers" the right to vote, and he urged his Democratic friends to vote against the soldiers.

Among the bitter opponents of the proposed amendment were several young men of the Copperhead persuasion. They said the election was a Black Republican trick to get votes for LINCOLN and to put "niggers" on an equality with white men. Of course, they deposited ballots against the privilege proposed to be given the soldiers on the battle-field.

A fellow in the United States uniform, supposed to be a soldier, presented himself at one of the polls and argued against allowing soldiers to vote while away from home. He said if they were given the right to vote while on the field they would be influenced by the officers in command. This man was evidently a Copperhead, but no one could ascertain where he belonged. The soldiers will be allowed to vote, however, and "that's the end on't."

THE ELECTION IN BROOKLYN.

The following are the complete returns of the election in Brooklyn, and, as will be seen, the majority in favor of the Constitutional Amendment, allowing soldiers to vote, was overwhelming:

Wards.	Yes.	No.	Wards.	Yes.	No.

The Result in the State.

THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE ELECTION.

Heavy Union Gains—Gov. Gilmore Re-elected—Large Union Majority in the Legislature.

CONCORD, Tuesday, March 8—8 P. M.

A very full vote was thrown at our State election to-day.

The returns up to the present hour are insufficient to establish the result; but they show considerable Union gains over the vote of last year.

Gilmore is undoubtedly reelected Governor over Harrington, the Opposition candidate.

The roads are soft, and there is some delay in getting the returns; but a good report of the result will be obtained to-night.

CONCORD, N. H., Tuesday, March 8—10:30, P. M.

Seventy-seven towns give GILMORE, 17,520; HARRINGTON, 13,979; Scattering, 81. GILMORE is elected by 4,000 majority. All five of the Republican Councellors are elected; probably nine of the twelve Senators elected are Republicans, and a majority of the Representatives. There have been heavy Union gains in every town heard from, except three.

CONCORD, N. H., Tuesday, March 8—11 P. M.

The Union victory in the State is being celebrated by fireworks, music, processions, &c.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Extensive Labor Movement at the Navy-Yard.

Yesterday, Rear-Admiral HIRAM PAULDING left this City for Washington, for the purpose of endeavoring to compromise the differences between the employes at the Navy-yard and the Departments. Nearly all the branches of work have recommenced a vigorous movement to obtain increased pay, but it is not now to be characterized by strikes. The laborers held a meeting on Friday last, and resolved to appoint a deputation to go to Washington, and lay their claims before the authorities. The caulkers waited on the Admiral on the same day, and stated that they could get more wages outside than they were paid in the yard; but their determination was to state their case to him and not to strike. The Admiral promised to represent the matter to the Government. The watchmen now get 13 shillings per diem, and they are about to apply for two dollars or 15 shillings. The blacksmiths also ask an advance, and the carpenters are said to be similarly inclined. The decision of the Secretary of the Navy regulates the pay of Navy-yard employes as outside workmen are paid; but the hands now assert that since their wages were increased last, a still further advance has taken place outside; and the present movement aims to affect another "equalization." A Board of Officers is again to investigate the prices paid in the foundries, shipyards and workshops of the metropolis. The laborers and mechanics at the other yards are working with the New-York hands in this matter, and will abide by the result attained here.

New-York Medical College.

The fourteenth annual commencement of this institution took place on Monday evening, the 7th inst. The attendance was very large, and among the audience were numbers of the most distinguished medical gentlemen of the City. Prof. RAPHAEL, Dean of the Faculty, in a short address called the attention of the graduates to the vast responsibilities which they assumed in becoming physicians, and exhorted them, if they did not feel a pure and genuine love for the profession, to abandon it at once. Rev. Dr. J. M. MATHEWS then conferred the degree of Doctor of Medicine on the following gentlemen: David Brekes, John T. Nagle, Otto F. A. Jenitz, J. G. Ponle, Justice J. Spreng, Charles C. Terry, Charles Liston Brown, Nelson Place, Jr., and Henry H. Davidson, of New-York; Theodore Frickenstein and William F. Galhaar, of Germany; J. M. Veitia, Fernando Minteguiaga and Francisco Arroyo y Heredia, of Cuba.

Hon. JOHN H. ANTHON, Professor of Medical Jurisprudence, then delivered a most eloquent and thrilling valedictory, which was listened to with great attention, both by the students and the large audience. The concluding address was by Mr. CHARLES C. TERRY, one of the graduates. The Van Arken prizes for the two best theses were awarded by Prof. PERCY. The first prize to Mr. DAVID BREKES, the second to Mr. OTTO F. A. JENTZ.

Rights of Omnibus Passengers.

The following petition to the Legislature of the State of New-York has been largely signed in this City:

"The undersigned, citizens and property owners of the State of New-York, respectfully request that the Legislature will at its present session enact a law declaring that no proprietor, conductor, driver or person in charge of any passenger car, stage, omnibus, or other public vehicle in the City of New-York, for the transportation of passengers therein, shall ask or demand any fee, reward or fare of any description, for carrying a passenger, unless such passenger shall be provided with a good and sufficient seat in said vehicle. Your petitioners represent that the evils of the present system of packing rail cars and omnibuses, as practiced by all the different lines in the City, without exception, have become unendurable, and they request that no further grants of railroad franchises be made, or any legislation in favor of the roads now in use be considered, without attaching thereto a provision of the character above stated."

The Metropolitan Fair.

The wholesale dry goods houses of this City are responding nobly to the appeal made in behalf of the Sanitary Fair—something over $80,000 having been already subscribed, in sums of not less than $1,000 each. The importers and wholesale dealers in fancy goods will be called upon in a few days by a committee for their subscriptions to the Metropolitan Fair. It may be safely assumed that the contributions from this class of New-York merchants will be creditably liberal.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

AN EXPLOSION IN THIRTY-EIGHTH-STREET—ONE MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED.—Between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning, an explosion occurred in the alcoholic distillery of Mr. GEORGE MOORE, in West 38th-street, near Tenth-avenue. The shock was so great that buildings on the adjoining block were shaken to their foundations. The watchman of the premises, named PATRICK PHILLIPS, was seriously injured by falling pieces of the building. He was conveyed to his residence No. 410 West Thirty-eighth-street, where he now lies in a critical condition. The building took fire immediately after the explosion. It was damaged to the extent of about $10,000; insured for $5,000. The explosion occurred in the basement, and the police report that this is the third or fourth time that an occurrence of this kind has taken place within a few months. The cause of it is as yet unascertained.

AN INFANT MURDERED BY ITS MOTHER.—Coroner NAUMANN held an inquest yesterday on the body of an infant aged 13 days, which came to its death, according to the verdict of the jury, "by suffocation at the hands of its mother, CATHARINE MCCARTY." The latter resided at No. 207 East Twenty-first-street. From her testimony it appears that she is not married, and that she did not know where the father of the child was. Several witnesses were examined, and among other testimony we have that of Dr. THOMAS ROBINSON, who made a post-mortem examination. The verdict of the jury is fully sustained by the evidence in the case. It all went to show that the unnatural mother had committed the crime of infanticide by suffocating it. CATHARINE was arrested and committed to the Tombs to await the action of the Grand Jury.

ARRIVAL OF A PRIZE.—The prize steamship Scotia, J. M. C. REVELL, Acting Ensign, commanding, arrived at this port yesterday from Wilmington Bar, via Hampton Roads. She is 81 tons burden, and has on board a cargo of 180 bales cotton. She was captured on the 1st inst., 10 miles off Wilmington, by the United States gunboat Connecticut, while attempting to run the blockade. She was bound to Nassau. On the 3d inst., WM. BRAKIL, seaman, of Vinalhaven, fell overboard and was drowned. The following is her list of officers: Acting Ensign, J. M. C. Revell; Acting Master's Mate, E. D. Howland; Acting Second Assistant Engineer, E. F. Maginnis; Acting Third Assistant Engineer, Henry Birchard.

RECEPTION OF THE FIFTY-SIXTH NEW-YORK VOLUNTEERS.—The sons of Orange and Sullivan are requested to attend a meeting of said Society, to be held at the Astor House, this Wednesday evening, at 5 o'clock, for the purpose of taking steps to give a fitting reception to the returning veterans of the Fifty-sixth New-York State Volunteers, (Tenth Legion,) C. The "Night Blooming Cereus"—Injunction Granted to Restrain its Imitation.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Barnard.

Edward Phalon and Henry L. Phalon vs. Frederick H. Henshaw, Charles L. Faulkner and Joshua M. Cushing.—This is an application for an injunction to restrain the defendants from selling an article of perfumery under the name of "Night Blooming Cereus," or under the label or trade-mark of plaintiff or any imitation thereof.

The plaintiffs allege that they have invented and discovered a new perfume which was never before known or used by the trade or public; that they adopted for it as an appropriate name and trade-mark the title of "Night Blooming Cereus." That under said name, within the last ten months, plaintiffs have sold $75,000 worth of this perfume, that they have spent very large sums in advertising it, and that there is no other perfume known under the same name. Plaintiffs further allege that the defendants have been and are selling a spurious article manufactured by R. & G. A. Wright, of Philadelphia, Penn., under the name of "Night Blooming Cereus," using plaintiff's labels and trade-mark, and are selling it in similar bottles, by which plaintiffs are greatly damaged in their business, and they pray that a perpetual injunction may issue and such damages be awarded them as they may be entitled to. Upon motion of E. W. Dodge, plaintiff's counsel, and the affidavits of the plaintiffs, Justice BARNARD yesterday granted an injunction against the defendants during the pendency of the action.
